

OS+H Asia 2021 goes hybrid from 8 to 12 November

Messe Düsseldorf Asia today announced the 12th edition of the Occupational Safety + Health Exhibition for Asia will take place as a hybrid model from 8 – 12 November 2021. The in-person component of the hybrid edition will take place at Devan Nair Institute for Employment and Employability.

OS+H Asia 2021 Hybrid Edition is aimed at driving the OSH industry forward and embracing business transformation, and will be anchored on four key pillars focused on pertinent issues within today's OSH landscape and the upskilling of safety professionals:

- Tech Innovation Stage
- Hosted buyer sessions
- Virtual showcase
- Thought leadership conferences and seminars

The shift to a hybrid edition in 2021 will ensure continuity in the OSH space as Singapore prepares to open up in the coming months, the coronavirus turns into an endemic over time, and potential travel corridors are set up.

The international exhibition was originally scheduled to take place as a full physical event at Marina Bay Sands from 29 September to 1 October 2021. However, due to ongoing travel restrictions, limitations to large-scale events, and varying quarantine requirements, this has made it extremely challenging for many international exhibitors and visitors to responsibly plan their participation for the September dates.

OS+H Asia 2021 Hybrid Edition will run in accordance with the necessary Safe Management Measures and practices as stipulated by the guidelines under the Event Industry Resilience Roadmap (IRR) and the latest government advisories.

More details on the OS+H Asia 2021 Hybrid Edition as well as visitor online pre-registration will be announced in a press release at a later date.

Our project team will reach out to all exhibitors and industry partners regarding event logistics and planning for the OS+H Asia 2021 Hybrid Edition.

The physical edition of OS+H Asia will return in September 2022.
